Linux.Conf.Au Open Day 2011

Ubuntu Australian Team

Despite the recent Queensland floods affecting Brisbane and the original venue for the Open Day, the day went ahead. It was held in the QUT Kelvin Grove campus "Refectory" after a last-minute venue change. This is basically the cafeteria!

People arrived just before 10am to set up the table.

Jared Norris leads the set-up.

Ubuntu Australian Team

We had CDs, pens, lanyards and stickers (supplied by Canonical!), as well as some posters and business cards with the team contact info on them. The cards were very popular. We used laptops for demos.

We also had a sheet where people could put down their email address to get information on joining the team sent to them.

Ubuntu Australian Team

There were more than half a dozen team members help out at various times during the day. Here are just some of them!

Ubuntu Australian Team