UvEAM in Brief

- Ubuntu Vancouver
Evangelism Advocacy & Marketing
- In short we are the "Buzz Generators"
- We grow the group, we find people who haven't heard of us, we find "new circles"
- Why grow? More fun, more opportunity, greater chance of being the "largest and the best"

Started at the March meeting... last month!

So, what's happened since then to promote Ubuntu Vancouver?

We Have A Logo

We Have A Tagline

Ubuntu Vancouver User Group

We are: Install-fests, release parties, drop-in help sessions, training classes... and much more! Join us.

Our goal is to be the largest, most successful and respected Ubuntu community in the world. You can help make that happen.

Marketing Channels

These are the ways we reach out to the community to "spread the word".

We're improving existing channels and creating new ones.

Marketing Channels (Past)

Historically, people discovered us by:

- FreeGeek
- Word-of-mouth
- Web search (Google)
- Ubuntu Vancouver wiki (website hosted on Launchpad)
- Mailing List

What's New?

Lots of edits and 'tweaks' to Ubuntu Vancouver wiki (hosted on Launchpad) including the new tagline, logo and a party logo

Congratulations! You've found the official site of the Ubuntu Vancouver Local Community.

Introduction

Our goal is to be the largest, most successful and respected Ubuntu community in the world. You can help make that happen.

Ubuntu Vancouver was launched in April 2008, mostly to organize a Hardy Heron release party. Since then we have decided to:

- Educate - Organize and present courses about Ubuntu, Open Source Software, and GNU/Linux
- Advocate - Spread the word in the lower mainland
- Party - Whenever we can find an excuse (which is often)

Update on Vancouver group

Submitted by tony on Thu, 19/03/2009 - 00:49.

I got an e-mail today giving an update on the activity of the members of Ubuntu Canada in the Vancouver area, and wanted to give everyone a heads-up. The Vancouver group is now holding regular monthly meetings that anyone is welcome to attend and doing various tutorials and installfests, and otherwise rocking! For more information check out their sub-page on the wiki at <https://wiki.ubuntu.com/CanadianTeam/Vancouver>.

The Poll

Polled the UV email list with a question:

”What should we do as a group to grow Ubuntu Vancouver into the largest, most successful and respected Ubuntu community in the world?”

The Answers

1. Spread the word that we exist.
2. Increase interest in Ubuntu.
3. Recruit new members.
4. Retain existing members.
5. (Re)energize existing members.
6. Tech support outreach
 - Ubuntu Support Group
 - Location-independent, online (identi.ca/twitter or server-push) or on-location
 - Provide special Ubuntu appliance to simplify support task
7. Community and school outreach
8. Partner with other Ubuntu LoCo's
9. Report out to other teams (and report-in)
10. Provide a help and resources for smaller area groups
11. Events with other LoCo's (e.g. summer camp-out - Kootenay)
12. Provide Ubuntu systems to businesses and individuals as a revenue stream

From Past Meetings

1. Ubuntu courses for general public:

- "Introduction to Ubuntu
- "Introduction to Ubuntu 2 (Customization)"
- "Introduction to Ubuntu 3 (Administration)"
- "Fundamentals of Linux - Part 3"
- "Fundamentals of Linux - Part 2"
- "Fundamentals of Linux - Part 1"
- Additional workshops
- Course evaluation materials
- Course registration engine
- Recruit volunteers, instructors and assistant instructors, course designers
- Ubuntu workshops to specific groups (seniors, women, French, Mandarin, Cantonese)

2. Release parties (sometimes in costume, sometimes with entertainment)

3. Install-fests

4. Add value to Ubuntu Vancouver

5. Demo machines

6. Ubuntu clinics monthly (Window-less Wednesdays),

7. Interesting videos

8. Handouts for new Ubuntu users

9. Ubuntu Vancouver Wiki site (on Launchpad)

10. Online collaboration (FreeGeek wiki and list, UV mailing list)

11. FreeGeek partnership

12. UBC Linux lab

13. Alternative spaces - libraries, community centers

14. Support non-profits and organizations that want to change to Ubuntu

15. Alternate meeting times/dates/places

16. Presentations

17. Drawings for prizes

18. Booths at community (e.g. Earth Day, Media Democracy Day & Car-Free Vancouver Day)

19. Get help from organizations/companies (e.g. Canonical)

Other Ideas

1. Swag/goodies
 - Installation CD's
 - Food/snacks/beverages
2. Conference in (or bring in) Ubuntu "celebrities"
3. Ad-hoc networking
4. Get help from System76 (and other companies in the Ubuntu space)
5. Increase frequency and intensity of events
6. Locate developers in BC that work on Ubuntu & Debian (or want to)
7. Public information booths in crowded places
8. Borrow ideas from other groups/teams that have been successful
9. IRC channel on freenode

What's Next?

More growth!!

Have we tapped the entire Vancouver area for Ubuntu lovers?

- Do something unconventional
- Get more face-time in public places
- Add more online channels, and improve the existing ones
- Organize press events and releases
- Find people that wouldn't traditionally join a LoCo and invite them
- Look outside our circle.
- Tell people about Ubuntu, with excitement!

What Do We Need Most?

Lots of ideas, but more help is needed!

Sign up!

JauntyReleaseParties - Ubuntu ... MassachusettsTeam - Ubuntu ...

JauntyReleaseParties

JauntyJackalope is coming, scheduled for release in April 2009.

For every Ubuntu release we like to organize parties all over the world. At these parties everyone is welcome and we get together to celebrate, meet new friends and often introduce people new to Ubuntu to our community and our Operating System. Release parties are not only a great way to meet people but they are a lot of fun!

If you want to organise a release party:

- Read this guide to how to run a party. Many of the release parties are organized by Ubuntu LoCo Teams. Check with your local team to see if you can work together on a party.
- Join the ubuntu-event-planners mailing list (do this at <https://lists.ubuntu.com/mailman/listinfo/Ubuntu-event-planners>) where you can find other event organisers to get help and advise from.
- Announce your party on the loco-contacts mailing list (do this at <https://lists.ubuntu.com/mailman/listinfo/loco-contacts>) to spread the word!

If you have a release party scheduled, be sure to:

- Add it to this page. Ensure you add the name(s) of the organizers, preferably with email addresses.
